Family from [CARIBBEAN COUNTRY] in the West Indies. Quite a well-built girl with hair tied back, wearing sweater and trousers. Parents divorced when she was about 7, lives with mother and sister and brother. (Think she has other brothers and sisters as well) Is doing CPVE and wants to do a BTEC course in leisure and take a degree because wants to go into tourism business. Goes around with group of girlfriends. Has only had two relationships with boys, neither of which involved sex. The first was when she was 14 and boyfriend was 17, only a short relationship, he suggested sex and she didn't want it. The second relationship lasted much longer, a year or 18 months, with a boy she met while over in [CARIBBEAN COUNTRY], and then he came over here to live for a while and they saw each other, but more as friends than a closer relationship, there was no sex. He has now gone back to [CARIBBEAN COUNTRY] and that's finished because she wouldn't want to live there. She thinks that if he had stayed their relationship may have progressed into a sexual one. There is another boy at the moment who she is hoping to go out with, waiting to see if he'll ask her but feels she could almost ask him out.

She is not very aware of AIDS or the need for contraception, she doesn't really think much about sex at all, but also thinks she might have sex spontaneously at some time, but isn't particularly bothered about using anything. Is contrast between her wanting to spend six years getting into the sort of job/career she wants, yet not seeming very concerned as to being protected from pregnancy or AIDS.

She is willing to have a follow-up interview.
